

Norton College Worcester Welcomes New Life in the Classroom

This term, pupils at Norton College Worcester experienced the wonder of life first-hand as they took part in an exciting chick hatching project in partnership with Living Eggs.

Over the course of the programme, a specially delivered incubator and fertilised eggs arrived in school, giving students a unique opportunity to observe the life cycle of a chicken up close. The eggs were already incubating when they arrived, and within days, pupils witnessed the incredible moment as chicks began to hatch—an experience that sparked curiosity, excitement, and plenty of thoughtful questions.

The chick hatching project created a real buzz across the school. From the first signs of movement inside the eggs to the moment the chicks took their first steps, pupils were fully engaged and inspired.

Norton College Worcester is proud to provide opportunities like this, bringing learning to life and creating memories that pupils will never forget.
